FROM SLAVERY TO FREEDOM.

THE EMANCIPATION OF FRANK WILKINSON—BY THE MT. CLEMENS MONROE'S GOLD CURE.

How a Cure was Wrought.

[From the Mt. Clemens Monitor of May 6.]

To-morrow there goes from Mt. Clemens a young man who came here a slave and leaves a freeman.

He is Mr. Frank Wilkinson, a citizen of Detroit, and the first graduate of the Mt. Clemens Monroe's Gold Cure anti-slavery.

His eyes are bright, his countenance clear, and rid of a terrible appetite, he faces the world, his heart swelling with new hopes and aspirations.

"I have been one of these periodical drinkers," said Mr. Wilkinson to a reporter, "I would remain sober for several weeks, or months, and then go on a prolonged debauch, continuing sometimes for two months. I would feel these spasms coming upon me with fear and horror, and when I came out of them, a miserable wreck, had only disgust for myself, and was without hope of the future. My friends and family had almost given up expectation of my redemption, as I had myself."

"In February last I came to Detroit, and almost immediately started on a grand cure. I had heard of the Mt. Clemens Monroe's Gold Cure, and three weeks ago, while in a state of semi-torment, I boarded the train at Gratiot street and came up here. I began treatment at once. Sunday and Monday I drank freely, but on Tuesday I could not drink, and on Wednesday I had no desire remaining. From that time to this I have thought of liquor only with loathing. A barber put bay rum on my face the other day and it made me sick at the stomach. I believe I am permanently cured of the appetite that has cursed my life."

"During the treatment I have not simply experienced no bad effects, but have actually gained eight pounds in weight. My arm is not even sore. There has been a steady improvement in my general health. I shall leave here with a grateful heart, with a personal knowledge of the Monroe Cure that will enable me to speak of it in terms of greatest confidence and enthusiasm."

"Royal Ruby" Port Wine. The term "delicate health" is used to express a physical condition, in which the powers of nature appear to be partially exhausted, and the system is peculiarly sensitive to all morbid influences. Recourse should be had under these circumstances to "Royal Ruby" port wine.
